

The Biosphere, Culture and Brighton & Hove

Why are we talking about this?

- Looking to the future - 2030 and beyond
- Contextual aspects of city life
- Visitor economy - Needs to maintain attractive offer
- Significant economic impact
- Positive contribution to health and wellbeing
- Importance of clean air and healthy environment
- An attractive city that is fun to be in

Biosphere

- Dr Sean Ashworth, Deputy Chief Fisheries and Conservation Officer, Sussex Inshore Fisheries & Conservation Authority, Biosphere Partnership rep.
- Rich Howorth, Biosphere Programme Manager, Brighton & Hove City Council

Culture

- Andrew Comben, Chief Executive, Brighton Dome & Brighton Festival, Arts & Creative Industries Commission rep.
- Val Birchall, Arts & Culture Programme Director, Brighton & Hove City Council